

CHILD SEPARATIONS AT THE BORDER:

A Panel Discussion

Thursday, September 13, 2018

12:45-1:45 p.m

401 Penn classroom

Includes a light lunch

Join Rutgers–Camden faculty as they discuss some of the legal, international, psychological, and historical issues raised by this summer’s separation of refugee and migrant children from their families at the southern border.

Faculty Panelists:

John Wall, Professor of Philosophy, Religion, and Childhood Studies

Joanne Gottesman, Clinical Professor of Law

Ann Adalist-Estrin, Director, National Resource Center on Children and Families of the Incarcerated

Lorrin Thomas, Associate Professor of History

Questions? Contact John Wall at johnwall@camden.rutgers.edu

Sponsored by Department of Philosophy and Religion, and the Exploring Interdisciplinary Global Studies Project, Rutgers University–Camden

RUTGERS
UNIVERSITY | CAMDEN